

Questions:

How many samples have been taken so far? How many additional samples are being taken? And where are these samples being taken from (the RAAF base, private land?)

Response to all:

As of 30 March 2018, 1714 samples had been taken as part of the environmental investigation into PFAS at RAAF Base Edinburgh. This figure includes 1570 on-base samples and 144 off-base samples. These samples are taken from soil, groundwater, surface-water and sediment.

In order to finalise the Detailed Site Investigation (DSI) approximately 500 additional samples have been scheduled, both on and off RAAF Edinburgh. The DSI Report is expected to be finalised in late 2018.

An update on this sampling program will be given at the next Edinburgh Community Walk-In Session, planned for the second-quarter of 2018.
