Utter insanity

Now the head of defence forces is forbidding him or her and says use of the pronouns will be considered bullying!

Sack the imbecile right now!! Better still commit to a lunatic asylum. Act.

Dear Minister,

I recently heard your 2gb interview where you stated, emphatically, that there was no guidelines or manual outlining changes in gender specific pronouns. Banning he, she, etc is political correctness gone mad, but the most recent manual bans such terms.

You appear to have misled the 2gb listeners. Or, is it that you are not aware what is happening in your portfolio.

This is just another reason why the Liberal party will be punished at the next election. I actually feel sick to the stomach contemplating a Bill Shorten Prime Ministership, but perhaps Australia needs 3 years of labor to shake up the Liberal party and return it to the right.

I am a totally frustrated Liberal supporter who intends to vote informal at the next election, and I will continue to do so whilst Turnbull is Prime Minister and the left wing of the party holds sway.

Good Evening Ms Payne,

I am writing to you in regards to the article that appeared in this morning article, titled Army drops the 'H' Bomb , on 6 August 2018. Having read this article I am in total shock that, soldiers are being banned from using the terms, such as Him or Her , as it will offend the LGBTTT comrades. This in my view is the biggest load of rubbish that I have heard, that the Australian Army has embarked on such a directive.

One cannot escape the truth, that Man and Woman, was created by Almighty God, and a male is called Man and a female, is called woman, so how can the Army Commandant put out such an instruction to the troops that they are no longer to use the terms, Him or Her, and if they do so, it would be bullying. My question is what are they supposed to call them, ie the LGBTTT comrades?

In my view if the LGBTTT comrades are so easily offended, they should not be in the Army, in the first place. An appalling situation to say the least.

My question to you, as Minister for Defence, what are you going to do about this directive?

It appears to me that this country is very protective towards the LGBTTT and the Muslims, what would be the position, should the name of Jesus, be blasphemed, and Christian soldiers are in fact offended, would a directive of this nature be put out? I have serious doubts that this would even be considered.

May I respectfully, suggest to you, as Minister for Defence, to stop this directive been promulgated.

I look forward to your response.

God Bless,
Kind Regards,

Marise Paynes new gender guide lines are a disgrace to the military and all those who serve this country. The suicide rates of returned soldiers is a real problem, but what do you do to address the real issues? Pander to identity politics. If you are in the military and it hurts your feelings to be referred to by your assigned sex you do not belong in the defense force. You are making a mockery out of our armed forces. If god forbid we ever go to war all the enemy has to do is call you a boy or a girl and they will run and cry to the human rights commission. WHAT A JOKE. This is the worst liberal government in the history of Australia Marise Payne belongs in the greens party. As long as the left faction of the liberal party is implementing their policies the liberal party will bleed votes. Marise Payne should resign immediately, not only did you make these policies but when you where confronted about them from Sherry Markson you had the ordacity to deny them. The liberals under Malcom Turnbull will hand government to Bill Shorton, and with ministers like the current minister for defence being able to sensor people for using pronouns like he or she, may God help this once great country.

Good evening,

Just a quick enquiry about what has been in the media regarding Australias Defence Forces recently.

Surely, policies such as “Respecting Islam” and using gender neutral language is an exaggeration? Defence is not a joke, not to be taken lightly nor seen as a platform by which an individual, or small group of individuals, push a personal, non-mainstream agenda.

Of particular concern, the notion that females can perform the same as men under extreme physical demands.

How can it be that there are separate competitions for females in every sport, Tennis, Boxing, UFC, Golf, Weightlifting, because women cannot compete physically with men, but an absurd agenda is proposed whereby women CAN compete physically with men on a battlefield? How is this possible?

The Military must be in a state of readiness at al times. The enemy, whoever that may be, will not show sympathy for, or send in all-female platoons, in response to political correctness and female combatants.

A study performed by the US Marines concluded that mixed-gender platoons performed 70% below all male platoons in combat related duties – females cannot carry weight over distance as quickly as men, evacuation of casualties was inefficient and getting fire on target while under duress were of not-acceptable standard.

This was not a small sample size study.

The policies that are being implemented in Australias Armed Forces at present are dangerous. A laughing stock for both reasonable Australians and, worse, any potential enemy. How could they not be?

Which reasonable person would consider any female soldier the equivalent of Ben Roberts-Smith or Mark Donaldson physically? Capable of confronting these guys hand to hand in a combat situation?

Anyone proposing females can compete with these guys is either delusional or knowingly telling lies.

Or, perhaps, surrounded by weedy, mousy, Beta-male types, as is common in Parliaments and Councils and Regulatory bodies, females have come to feel as if they can match those type of men physically, which is probably true.

The problem is - other armies wont be composed of women or Beta-Male, weedy politician type men. They will be 6’4” fitness fanatics wielding automatic weapons and swords.

To send women up against men in combat situations is ridiculous. Common sense suggests they will lose, studies performed by US Marines have proven it.
Women cant compete with men on a tennis court, but they can in war?

This is what people are expected to believe?

I'm sorry, but they don't. Here or anywhere else.

If this is what the Defence Minister believes they are dangerously out of touch with recent studies conducted in the US on this very subject.

Out of touch with whats happening in the US Military = you are not much of a Defence Minister, perhaps?

Thank you for so far resisting this push in the ADF. However the activists need to be stopped from indoctrinating innocent children from kindergarten up, in many cases unbeknown to parents. Such propoganda has resulted in numerous children "transitioning", causing immense medical and psychological harm, which can have lifelong impact.

The initial response may be positive, but further down the track there is evidence of depression and suicide. Some subjects of this transgenderism have chosen to again live in accordance with their natural gender. The children in question need help to overcome a disability, not be used to promote an ideological agenda.

A change is needed in ADF agenda. $1 million to pay for the sex-change surgeries of 17 defence force staff is an abuse of taxpayer money.

Australians have had far more than enough of politically correct jargon, such as 'diversity and inclusiveness'!

Australian Defence Force guide bans soldiers from saying 'him'

and 'her' to avoid LGBTI offence

Jack Houghton & Miranda Devine, The Daily Telegraph
August 6, 2018

https://www.dailytelegraph.com.au/news/nsw/australian-defence-force-guide-bans-soldiers-from-saying-him-and-her-to-avoid-lgbti-offence/news-story/2f1ab6ee4d4285d0da17d2f6186062f2?utm_source=Daily%20Telegraph&utm_medium=email&utm_campaign=editorial

SOLDIERS are being told they shouldn't use terms like "him", "her" so they don't offend "LGBTI" members in a new guide that says refusing to do so will be considered "bullying".

The language guide written by the Australian Defence Force Academy began being distributed to officers in training last year as part of a politically correct push inside the military.

The document instructs soldiers to issue apologies if they use offending language and warned they be reported for "unacceptable behaviour" if the speech was deliberate.

"Use gender neutral language when referring to relationships or gender identities," the guide says.

MORE: Read the full Australian Defence Force guide

"In the event you make a mistake, the best course of action is to apologise, listen to anything the member wishes to say in response and then move on with the conversation.

"All ADFA personnel need to appreciate that the deliberate use of non-inclusive language, exclusion and bullying due to gender diversity are some of the behaviours which can affect LGBTI members."

ADF officers were also told not to use "pronouns or language that does not match a person's gender identity".

"Misgendering can have a significant effect on transgender individuals as it is often an expression of a lack of understanding of acceptance of that person's identity," the guide says.

The ADF released a statement today saying it had not issued a "directive" on gender-neutral language but declined to comment on the guide which encouraged staff to do so.

"There are around 80,000 personnel in the Australian Defence Force," an ADF spokesman said.

"Supervisors and commanders are required to lead teams from all walks of life, who often work, eat and sleep in close proximity for extended periods.

"ADFA Cadets are not being told that they should not use terms like him or her."

Defence sources say the guide is part of a politically correct push by Commandant Cheryl Pearce, who wrote in the document that the changes were required to work as a "military professional in the 21st century".

"To meet the challenge of leadership and military professionalism the learning environment and culture at ADFA must be inclusive and diverse," she writes in it.

The document also encourages soldiers to be an "ally" and learn the definitions of LGBTI terms.

"Gender expression refers to the way that people demonstrate gender identity externally and normally through a combination of typically masculine, feminine or androgynous traits," the guide says.

Senior defence sources said Defence was planning to issue a "directive" for staff to use gender neutral language going forward.

Defence last night refused to comment on the guide, with a spokesman instead saying there had been no “directive” issued on gender-neutral language.

“Members of the Australian Defence Force are required to address each other in a respectful manner,” he said.

“This includes members addressing each other by rank and using the customary military compliments.

“There will be no Defence directive on the use of gender neutral language.”

Defence Minister Marise Payne — who was not aware of the document when first contacted — denied plans to issue a directive in the future.

“The Department has not, and is not intending to, issue a Defence directive on gender-neutral language. Claims to the contrary are wrong,” she said.

The ADF has come under fire in recent years for its gender diversity push, including revelations last year that army recruiters were told to only hire women for certain roles to meet gender quotas.

It was also revealed taxpayers paid more than $1 million to pay for the sex-change surgeries of 17 defence force staff.

SERIOUSLY.....by definition your DNA Defines if you are male or female , end of story . The Australian people are respectful of people sexuality but we are not fools , there's discussion as to how the public can get rid of your left wing factional government , they're discussing this all day on Facebook . If snowflakes can't take being called him or her, well don't join the forces . As discussed my family are ex service personnel, my grandfather was in counter intelligence and flew the secret documents to Churchill from Menzies on the Perth to Koggala leg of the mission, the longest flights in the history of the world in a Catalina flying boat . He was also involved with NASA , he was a radar specialist.

Got his start aged 15 and sailed on The Australia , was on it when the first plane took off on an Australian war ship . He would turn in his grave to see this homosexual gender neutral language farce . The navy is no place for anyone who takes offence at being called HIM OR HER in fact you need to fire any personnel who have an issue with that

It's nothing for me to get 100,000 hits and I send them to Eric Abetz when they reach 20,000 as he's one of the few who listen to the public

This rubbish about there not being factions , I have reported my attendance at left wing high level factional meetings at Jillian Skinners house with Ross Barlow ,

Why did Malcolm Turnbull make up lies about there being no factions , proves he is Liar ?

I left the party after the PM was knifed in the back

I don't know how long since you saw Rob, but ill copy him

His seat is all but lost over the proposed closure of Mona Vale Hospital and to think how hard I worked to get him elected only for him to be looked at as a fool with 11 years he's not fulfilled his election promises, Dave Mona Vale Hospital , upgrade Mona Vale Rd, no more inappropriate development of Warriewood valley

I've joined the National party , however real grumblings that the leader is a SYNCOPHANT of Turnbull mantra

The future of a strong ADF and Defence organisation relies on Defence's capacity to attract and retain the best possible talent and skills from across the entire Australian population.

Navy participated in the “100 Days for Change” campaign to support female participation in the workforce. This included a small number of Navy personnel painting their fingernail to raise awareness of the campaign.

While well meaning, it is the Minister of Defence’s view that this activity is not a practical or effective way of developing a diverse and strong ADF workforce. McTurnbull's navy—HMAS Pink

Fingernail

Please God save my Australia from Malcolm Turnbull!

The thin edge of the Same-Sex-Marriage wedge, as predicted on the blog, has become a broad sledge assault upon society, especially on the Royal Australian Navy. This madness allowed to fester by those from the prime minister down to utterly idiotic Royal Australian Navy officer, Lieutenant Maritime Warfare Officer Jonathan Milton, defies any suitable word for condemnation and international shame. Malcolm Turnbull has eclipsed Rudd and Gillard as the worst leader this nation has ever suffered.

A bearded Australian naval officer holding up his painted pinky fingernail in hot lolly pink was an absolute money shot for the 100 Days For Change campaigners.

Navy nailed to the wall for PC post

Royal Australian Navy officer, Lieutenant Maritime Warfare Officer Jonathan Milton, painted his pinky fingernail in support of gender equality campaign, 100 Days For Change.

A bearded Australian naval officer holding up his painted pinky fingernail in hot lolly pink was an absolute money shot for the 100 Days For Change campaigners.

Yet when the Australian navy posted photos of the unlikely poster boy across social media, it didn't go down well with the troops.

Navy was pilloried for being focused on a "politically correct" campaign rather than focusing on the defence of the realm.

The 100 Days For Change campaign was launched this month by Women and Leadership Australia to promote a nationwide push among companies for gender equity in the workplace. Journalist advocate Tracy Spicer is the public face of the campaign.

NSW RSL president James Brown said last night the navy should never have been dragged into such a loaded political exercise.

"Navy has made great progress in making sure women aren't unfairly treated," he said. "But ordering uniformed personnel to join social-activism campaigns is a step too far and risks politicising the defence force."

Lauding the aims of the campaign on the official navy website, Deputy Chief Mark Hammond said 21.3 per cent of the navy's workforce was female, "a statistic navy can be proud of, but more needs to be done".

Rear Admiral Hammond said the navy needed to look at a range of measures — from supporting women's sporting events to reviewing procedures for unconscious gender bias.

"We must do this as one navy, regardless of age, rank, race, religion, sexual orientation, ability or gender,” he said. “We cannot afford to leave anyone behind.”

The Defence Department tweeted that the navy had recently become involved in the campaign. “To encourage gender equality and diversity in the workplace, personnel in Sydney painted their pinky fingernails pink as a visual indication of support,” the department said.

The campaign partners include the not-for-profit Australian Gender Equality Council and the Workplace Gender Equality Agency, an Australian government statutory agency.

“What I love about this campaign is the focus on practical change, from the grassroots to the top end of town: action, not words. It will be exciting to see what we are able to achieve,” Ms Spicer said of the campaign.

There are various pledges for change on the campaign website, including from Warrant Officer Gary Wight of the Royal Australian Navy. “I will focus on the strength and increased capability we gain from a truly diverse and inclusive workforce,” he said.

Former Labor leader Mark Latham let loose yesterday. “THIS WILL SCARE THE ENEMY,” he screamed on his Facebook and Twitter feeds. “Sadly, this is not a joke. It is the Australian Defence Force under Marise Payne and Malcolm Turnbull.”

On Mr Latham’s Outsiders Facebook page, it was open season. Phil said: @Bullshit! Really! This is the limit! ... The services (navy, RAAF, army) need men and women who will fight for our country with devotion and guns, not dresses and hair dryers.”

Rob said: “When I was in the army 30 years ago we thought the navy wore pink nail polish anyway.”

Mr Latham told The Australian the 100 Days For Change campaign was another doomed “PC project”. “These guys are fighting for their country ... why engage in pathetic virtue signalling?” he said.

The office of Defence Minister Marise Payne did not respond to inquiries.

Dear Brigadier Cheryl Pearce,

I am sending this email after reading an article today in the Gold Coast Bulletin regarding a directive you have apparently issued about gender neutral speech. I fully realise that not all newspaper articles are 100% correct however if this one is it stated "Australian soldiers are being banned from using terms like "him" and "her" so they don't offend LGBTI members in a new guide that says refusing to do so will be considered bullying and will not be tolerated." The article attributed this to you as follows "Defence sources say the guide is part of a politically correct push by Commandant ADFA, Brigadier Cheryl Pearce."

If this is true I find it completely revolting and disgusting that you are forcing normal heterosexual people in the forces, who are probably about 98%? of the people, to conform to something that is completely unnatural and abnormal. The article states that if these orders are not followed it will be considered bullying and will not be tolerated. What you are doing is in fact bullying 98%? of the forces to do something most would not want to would and find unnatural.

I realise that LGBTI people should not be discriminated against in any way or treated badly, however, this is political correctness gone completely off the rails. They should be treated with the same respect as heterosexual people expect. I am sure our armed forces have much more serious things to worry about.

Once again I find this a completely revolting and disgusting situation which should be stopped instantly.

Hello Senator,

I am concerned what your government is doing to our ADF.

Mark Latham has outlined some of the things happening under your watch.

Please stop this nonsense before it is too late.

First they watered down training programs to ensure women were recruited into positions like fast-jet pilots.

Then they had female-only recruitments across the ADF.

Then they appointed a Defence Imam and held 'Be Nice To Islam' seminars.

Then they humiliated the men with wacky 'unconscious bias' training.

Then they took away their fighting symbols, an ADF tradition.

Then they painted their little fingers pink in the Navy.

Now 'gendered' words like 'him' and 'her' are being banned, out of respect for transexuals (see below).

Next our soldiers will be forced to apologise to the enemy before going into battle.

Morale is at an all-time low. Men have been made to feel like second-class citizens in the ADF, when all they want to do is fight for their country.

It's a tragedy all-round. Yet this is what Minister Marise 'PC' Payne and the Turnbull Government have done to our defence forces.

The damage will take many years to repair.

Insanity. Your recruiting centres are turning away able bodied men to fill ludicrous gender quotas while thumbing your noses as radical Islam infests ever facet of society and increasingly local government.

Your Marxist thought police drivel is infuriating and you are destroying the ability of Australia to defend itself from the inside out by making it harder for these people to do their jobs with your PC ridiculousness or not even allowing them to sign up at all in some cases. I would wonder how anyone could be this ignorant or flippant when it comes to national defence but your wholly ineffective, even damaging work as Defence Minister is something you probably take great pride in considering no-one would be stupid enough to think any of your ideas have any worth besides taking the defence of Australia backwards. Dear Senator,

I thought it was April the 1st looking at recent articles relating to the ADF and the neutering of our warriors, I served for 20 plus years, my Grandfather in the First World War and Dad in the Second World War.

I am concerned for our military personnel and the way the military is being used for social experiments, I am also a voter and love Australia, under your watch our personnel are having moral lowered and I mean HIS and HER not they and them why not just call them Arthur or Martha., obviously someone in your department has had a brain fart why should you and your department curb the war fighting ability of our warriors by gender fluidity when I was in we were Men and women.

I want members of our military to be promoted on merit and war fighting experience not because of rainbow policies who gives a heck what orientation of a soldier, sailor or airman is as long as they can fight and kill our enemies.

You will have our troops too scared to do they job they are employed to do and that is defend us, by now you have probably guessed I am not politically correct I love Australia.

When I returned from Vietnam I always voted Liberal because until Turnbull the party was conservative and stood for real values now we have service people marching in the gay Madi Gra. When I was in we were not allowed to get involved in politics or is it allowed because it is in line with progressive gender.

I put the decisions coming out of Defence on academic idiots brainwashing our leaders, One consolation I live in Longman and we didn't fall for voting LNP, your number is up the only way you will survive will be to dump Turnbull, Bishop, Pyne and company and put real conservatives in, return our Armed Forces to a warrior tradition.

Because I am a voter and paid taxes I employ you so an answer is expected, I have tried to remain silent but it is the Turnbull clique that is destroying our country, I want to make it quite clear its your ideology I despise not you as a person.

Dear Minister,

I am a 59 year old straight white male. I have been a Liberal Voter my entire Adult life, but now, for the first time in my Adult life, I am angry at politics in Australia. To be more specific, I am angry that Political Correctness has taken over and the population of Australia are now being dictated to by minority groups with their own agendas, and if I, or any other Aussie dares to speak out we are branded racist, homophobic, or the new one I only heard in the media for the first time last week, "Transphobic",

I felt embarrassed recently when the Navy were allegedly encouraged by you to paint their pinkie fingernails pink in support of some cause or other. What an embarrassment. I know a few service personnel, and although they feared repercussions if they were to say anything, I can assure you that there were a great many of angry service men and women at that "encouragement".

Then today I read that you are encouraging service personnel not to use the words "Him or Her" as that may be gender bullying! Are you fair dinkum? This is beyond getting beyond a joke, it is ridiculous and outrageous.

May I remind you that it took a "Him" and "Her" to create every person on the planet, and to deny their existence by not referring to men or women as Him or Her is utter madness.

I have just emailed the Prime Minister expressing my outrage. My vote for Liberal is not only no longer assured, it is highly likely that it will be given to a candidate that reflects my views, and I can assure you there are a number of conservative candidates starting to line up to get the vote of disgruntled and angry voters like me.

Sincerely
s47F SA
One angry voter.

Australian Defence Force guide bans soldiers from saying 'him' and 'her' to avoid LGBTI offence

Jack Houghton & Miranda Devine, The Daily Telegraph
August 5, 2018 8:20pm

SOLDIERS are being told they shouldn't use terms like "him", "her" so they don't offend "LGBTI" members in a new guide that says refusing to do so will be considered "bullying".

The language guide written by the Australian Defence Force Academy began being distributed to officers in training last year as part of a politically correct push inside the military.

The document instructs soldiers to issue apologies if they use offending language and warned they be reported for "unacceptable behaviour" if the speech was deliberate.

"Use gender neutral language when referring to relationships or gender identities," the guide says.

"In the event you make a mistake, the best course of action is to apologise, listen to anything the member wishes to say in response and then move on with the conversation.

"All ADFA personnel need to appreciate that the deliberate use of non-inclusive language, exclusion and bullying due to gender diversity are some of the behaviours which can affect LGBTI members."

What trainee officers are learning in the military.

ADF officers were also told not to use “pronouns or language that does not match a person’s gender identity”.

“Misgendering can have a significant effect on transgender individuals as it is often an expression of a lack of understanding of acceptance of that person’s identity,” the guide says.

Defence sources say the guide is part of a politically correct push by Commandant Cheryl Pearce, who wrote in the document that the changes were required to work as a “military professional in the 21st century”.

“To meet the challenge of leadership and military professionalism the learning environment and culture at ADFA must be inclusive and diverse,” she writes in it.

The document also encourages soldiers to be an “ally” and learn the definitions of LGBTI terms.

“Gender expression refers to the way that people demonstrate gender identity externally and normally through a combination of typically masculine, feminine or androgynous traits,” the guide says.

Senior defence sources said Defence was planning to issue a "directive" for staff to use gender neutral language going forward.

Defence last night refused to comment on the guide, with a spokesman instead saying there had been no "directive" issued on gender-neutral language.

"Members of the Australian Defence Force are required to address each other in a respectful manner," he said.

"This includes members addressing each other by rank and using the customary military compliments.

"There will be no Defence directive on the use of gender neutral language."

How the ADF outlines unacceptable behaviour.

Defence Minister Marise Payne — who was not aware of the document when first contacted — denied plans to issue a directive in the future.

“The Department has not, and is not intending to, issue a Defence directive on gender-neutral language. Claims to the contrary are wrong,” she said.

The directive to use gender-neutral language.

The ADF has come under fire in recent years for its gender diversity push, including revelations last year that army recruiters were told to only hire women for certain roles to meet gender quotas.

It was also revealed taxpayers paid more than $1 million to pay for the sex-change surgeries of 17 defence force staff.

Dear Sir or how do we address you ? A simple solution IT.
How dare you play around with your game of P.C. You have humiliated the memory's of thousands' of Men (Him) and Women (She) for the sake of your gay agenda. If you want to promote your sexuality as God knows what you are may WE suggest you resign and go back into your snowflake inner self and either come out a female or a male ? You are a severe danger to this country's security.

Hi Marise

Once again the senior officers of the ADF with the direct assistance of you and your office has place the ADF UP FOR BOTH National and International ridicule

And I can tell you from my own experience that this action is having a very negative affect on service moral – it is considered a bad and lousy joke, demeaning and insulting

He/she, him/her, them/they are distinctive and easily identifiable, comfortable and direct

How many members of the ADF come from Alphabet Soup groups – probably not enough to make up a Section.

You need a good dose of reality – this is Australia’s Defence Force, past and present that you are insulting.

Get rid of this PC rubbish and let the ADF do what it is designed to do – Defend Australia and Australians

I doubt very much that you will answer this contact

Thanks,

In the paper the other day CHERYL PEARCE said that MEN and WOMEN can not use the term HIM and HER I find this VERY offending as a human and a male and Australian for her to tell members of ADFA is worse thing of all.

What offends me even more is that I spent 20 years in the AIR FORCE and went to Vietnam with 2 sqn she has offended all ex service and current members with this total garbage about LGBTI?? It has nothing to do with the MILITARY but I would hope that you have put into place very strong anti bullying no matter who they are.

This WOMAN if SHE is the commandant of ADFA and I had your job I would have fired HER as LGBTI?? Has nothing to do with the MILITARY AS there is only MEN and WOMEN in it and bullying should not be tolerated by YOU or any officer.

HER statement borders on what I think is treason as SHE is trying to dictate to people how to live and to think that is not HER job it is to train all officers and nothing else that is your job.

To The Minister Of Defence,

It deeply saddened me to read recently that members of the defence forces will be disciplined as bullies if they don't call a transgender person by their trans identity.

Military tactical decisions I would believe should always be made using TRUTH and EVIDENCE rather than going by "feelings".

Yes, a decision can be made on "a hunch", however, that is usually because the person with the "hunch" is experienced in that area.

There are only TWO BIOLOGICAL, SCIENTIFICALLY PROVEN GENDERS.

There is a MEDICALLY recognized mental illness called GENDER DYSPHORIA, when a person sees themselves as the opposite sex.

IF a recruit were to come to you and say, as a perfectly healthy person and said to you that they should not have their legs (there are people who suffer from a condition where they want perfectly good arms or legs amputated), and they want them amputated, you would not pander to that recruits request.

To change their body a person has to have sexual body parts surgically removed: However it is surgically IMPOSSIBLE to change the XY or XX Chromosomes of His or Her body. Why are those who choose to live a life style choice that is not the Norm being pandered to by weak kneed politicians who are too scared by the radical LGBT pushers to stand up for TRUTH.

Evil prevails when good men do nothing.

There are only 2 GOD given and ordained sexes: Him / Her – He / She – Mr / Mrs - Master / Miss

Dear Senator Payne.

Hope this email find you well.

I heard via media that the Defence force is now required to reframe from addressing male or females as him or her, men or woman . Can you please advise if this is correct and if so((who)) is advising this sort of rubbish.

God help us if Australia does go to war when there is such red tape involved in communicating between defence personal .

I await for reply.
