

This painting shows a night encounter with a merchant ship where the searchlight beam illuminates the centre of the ship but may not necessarily reveal the stern. One reason why the Sydney would have recognized the Straat Malakka as a fake identity.