Dear Richard

I much appreciate your reply and I have queried the FSF on this matter as well and I hope for a reply from them soon. I thought it only fair to ask you as well as the IT and Web manager.

Thanks again

Jim Eagles

Dear James,

As published in the Closing Remarks from myself in the Search Diary:

The high definition images published for media distribution at the Virtual Press Room are the exact unaltered versions we received from the Search team on board the SV Geosounder. These images were compressed to a smaller size for the public to view in photo galleries and blogs due to bandwidth constraints. Aside from a small degree of sharpening to compensate for the lowering to a smaller image size, the inclusion of watermarking of "findingsydney.com" on the bottom right hand corner of blog photographs, the web team has gone to great lengths to ensure the images you have seen are as true to the originals as possible.

I suggest you speak with the Chairman of the Finding Sydney Foundation (Ted Graham) directly on this query, you can contact him via the FSF website:

<http://www.findingsydney.com/contactus.asp>

I have sent a copy of this correspondence to him.

Regards,

Richard Sojka
