Name: Cameron

Submission: Green Power and Defence.

Defence building and green energy, Defence have massive amounts of roof space that is being seriously under used for the collection of both solar power and water, in recent years defence has slowly transformed its ideas to start using these and other green building principles however we still lags badly behind other business in Australia, its time Defence threw some seriously big dollars at this and converted every single available piece of roofing space it has available to collection of both solar and water, the cost would be offset as excess water could be sold back to the states water corporations and excess solar not used by Defence could be sold back to energy companies.

I agree to my submission being published on the Defence website
