Hi Kyle

I think that's it! I amended it slightly as follows: ("Australian Defence Force", ADF, Navy, Army, RAAF, "Royal Australian Air Force", "Air Force") AND ("court martial", magistrat* "Defence Force Magistrat*") NOT (covid, coronavirus, US, Salvation)

How do I get it to capture everything back to 17 Apr 2019? If it's easier to call me to walk me through the process, please do so. $22

Thanks for your help

Kind regards

Penny

Hi Penny,

I had a play with the search terms and it has now picked the up the item. For your info the new search terms are:

("Australian Defence Force", ADF, Navy, Army, RAAF, "Royal Australian Air Force", "Air Force") AND ("court martial", magistrate, magistrates, "Defence Force Magistrates Court") NOT (covid, coronavirus, US, Salvation)

I exclude "covid, coronavirus, US, Salvation", kept getting all sorts of unrelated American court martials. Salvation Army kept popping up too.

Unfortunately with Streem, we can only go back 12 months. So back to 17 April 2019 from today. You might have to do an old fashioned Google search of March 2019. If you do find an article, please let us know and we can see if we can still get access to it.

When using Streem on desktop, its best to use Chrome web browser. I don't know Defence still insists on Internet Explorer – it's not even supported by Microsoft anymore!

Let me know how you go.

Hi Kyle

Many thanks for setting this up and creating the mention stream. Bizarrely, Streem was not working for me on DREAMS yesterday but I'm in the office today and was able to tinker further with the search terms.

For some reason the search does not seem to have picked up the news articles that have appeared today (and which appear in the daily news summary) about the Defence Force magistrate trial in Canberra yesterday. I'd appreciate if you were able to check the search terms and see what I might have missed in not being able to capture these articles.

Also once we have the search terms working effectively, is it possible to broaden the search timeframe back to 31 Mar 2019?

Kind regards

Penny Campbell

Good afternoon media team / Kyle

I request your assistance in conducting a search of all Australian media reporting of Courts Martial and Defence Force proceedings between 31 Mar 2019 and 31 Mar 2020.

By way of background, AVM Leigh Gordon and I have been directed by the Inspector-General of the Australian Defence Force to assist in the conduct of an own-initiative inquiry into the first year of the publication of listing and outcomes of courts martial and Defence Force magistrate trials. A copy of the inquiry Directions is attached for your information.

As part of our inquiry, we have been directed to review a sample of media reporting of court martial and Defence Force magistrate proceedings. To assist in your search and with possible search terms, I've attached a table that includes the date, location, nature of the charge and name of accused person for trials that have occurred in the last 12 months. (Please note, this list is public information; however the classification of our Directions has determined the classification of this email.)

If it would be easier to share the results of your search within Streem, then I request you establish a Streem account for me.

Please let me know if you need anything further from me.

Many thanks

Good afternoon Penny,

Thanks for getting in touch, and apologies for the delay in getting back to you.

We can definitely help, although it might take us a while to dig up the older enquiries as we used a different system to track them a few years back. Are you working to a specific deadline?

For now, I've attached the response that was provided to s47F last year. I'll have a chat with my team and will be in touch.

Good afternoon media team

I request your assistance in determining the number of media inquiries relating to Defence Force magistrate proceedings for the period 31 Mar 2019 and 31 Mar 2020, and in previous years.

By way of background, AVM Leigh Gordon and I have been directed by the Inspector-General of the Australian Defence Force to assist in the conduct of an own-initiative inquiry into the first year of the publication of listing and outcomes of courts martial and Defence Force magistrate trials. A copy of the inquiry Directions is attached for your information.

From our initial research, we understand that media inquiries relating to Defence Force magistrate trials have decreased since 31 March 2019 when Defence began publishing lists and outcomes of trials. To better determine whether this is in fact the case, are you able to provide us with the number of media inquiries received between 31 Mar 2019 and 31 Mar 2020, and in the previous five years?

Also, could we please obtain a copy of the media query and Defence response relating to BDR Edwards' sentencing as mentioned in an article by $47F in the Sunshine Daily on 11 Jun 19?

Please let me know if you need anything further from me.

Many thanks

Many thanks for putting this together. I understand the challenges of interrogating old IT systems so I appreciate the work you've done.

Subject to anything further AVM Gordon may need, I think this data is sufficient for our purposes for now. It certainly does seem to indicate a reduction in media queries to Defence.

Good afternoon Penny,

Thanks for your patience on this, it's taken a bit longer than expected to pull out the relevant data. We ended up using that same date range for all years, but we can tweak if you want it by calendar year instead.

Date	No. of enquiries	Requests for info now on website*	Notes
31/3/2020 – current	3	0	May not include all enquiries that would just be redirected to the website – journalists may have called in about it, or a team member may have just provided the link immediately, rather than registering as a media enquiry.
31/3/2019 – 31/3/2020	13	2	As above – may not include all simple referrals.
31/3/2018 – 31/3/2019	14	11
31/3/2017 – 31/3/2018	4	3	Noting the significant difference between other years, our data may not be complete for 2017

^{*} This is the number of enquiries that have been/would have been solved by having the content available online.

As you can probably tell, these statistics aren't the most accurate – this is because DFM enquiries tend to cross a number of different groups and services, and our spreadsheets for this are not really designed to track this specific level of detail.

I've done a bit of a review of the enquiries we do know of though, and as you can see from the stats, it does appear that we've had a reduction in enquiries about basic DFM information which is now available on the website.

Let me know if this is enough for your purposes – we'll keep trying to get access to the older stuff, but ICT have been quite difficult on this so far. I will also flag that the record-keeping in this team has improved significantly in the last couple of years, so the older enquiries may be hard to track down.

Happy to chat further.

Good afternoon Penny,

Again I am very wary of the accuracy of our stats here – it really does come down how we've tracked these enquiries in our spreadsheets. But if we ignore that, the focus seems to be more on actions resulting from the trials themselves, rather than when the trials are and what they are about. We also have had a good few on process.

For example:

- Penalties associated with certain cases
- Requests for statements regarding ADF culture (as a result of certain trials)
- When the annual report is released
- · Cost of DFM hearings
- Statistics for DFM trials

If you'd like any further info please let me know, and I'll see what I can do.

Good morning Tom

IGADF has asked us a follow-up question in respect of your data. If the number of inquiries relating to the information now provided in the publication of lists and outcomes has dropped dramatically, but the overall number of inquiries is about the same, what are the media asking questions about? Are you able to give us a sense of the subject matter of those media inquiries?

Many thanks

Good afternoon Media team, Tom

Just wondering if you've had a chance yet to go through your old system for the number of media inquiries relating to Defence Force magistrate proceedings for the period 31 Mar 2019 and 31 Mar 2020, and in previous years?

Kind regards

Penny Campbell

Good morning Tom

Thank you for your response.

Our report is due at the end of August so we have plenty of time. Having said that, if you were able to give us the information by mid-July that would greatly assist us in report writing.

Kind regards

Penny

Good afternoon Penny,

Thanks for getting in touch, and apologies for the delay in getting back to you.

We can definitely help, although it might take us a while to dig up the older enquiries as we used a different system to track them a few years back. Are you working to a specific deadline?

For now, I've attached the response that was provided to s47F last year. I'll have a chat with my team and will be in touch.

Kind regards,

Tom Lewis | a/Assistant Director

Good afternoon media team

I request your assistance in determining the number of media inquiries relating to Defence Force magistrate proceedings for the period 31 Mar 2019 and 31 Mar 2020, and in previous years.

By way of background, AVM Leigh Gordon and I have been directed by the Inspector-General of the Australian Defence Force to assist in the conduct of an own-initiative inquiry into the first year of the publication of listing and outcomes of courts martial and Defence Force magistrate trials. A copy of the inquiry Directions is attached for your information.

From our initial research, we understand that media inquiries relating to Defence Force magistrate trials have decreased since 31 March 2019 when Defence began publishing lists and outcomes of trials. To better determine whether this is in fact the case, are you able to provide us with the number of media inquiries received between 31 Mar 2019 and 31 Mar 2020, and in the previous five years?

Also, could we please obtain a copy of the media query and Defence response relating to BDR Edwards' sentencing as mentioned in an article by S47F in the Sunshine Daily on 11 Jun 19?

Please let me know if you need anything further from me.

Many thanks

Penny Campbell

governor king then investigated the duel, obviously, now, duelling was illegal in the army, but if it went through a certain court process, legal process and analysed, then people wouldn't be charged with murder necessarily. but he had trouble investigating macarthur so he decided that he would send him back to England on a court martial, as it was against army rules.

And, of course, the irony was that that court martial could have been the end of macarthur, but it was the making of the man. exactly.

William brangham has the story. At the centre of all of this is the case of chief petty officer edward gallagher, a highly decorated Navy seal.

Previously, he was accused of murdering a wounded is is militant in irag in 2017 and of shooting at civilians. A courtmartial acquitted him on those charges, but did convict him of posing in a photograph with the dead militant's body.

But the controversy since has been whether the navy should mete out any further punishment, like whether he should keep his status as a navy seal and keep the emblem of that force, a pin showing an eagle carrying a trident and a musket.

The president has routinely championed gallagher and said that he wouldn't allow the navy to punish gallagher anymore.

Just 10 days after the rescue, a naval board of inquiry is convened to investigate the sinking and find out who was to blame. The board recommends that captain movay face a court martial. It is unprecedented.

No other captain of a navy vessel lost in war has ever been court-martialled before, but this sinking is an unprecedented disaster.

Now, it's very easy to find dominic lennon, ok? There on the attorney-general's website is his letter of appointment to the magistrate's court. It turns out that dominic has been a practitioner at law for 23 years. Who couldn't? Don't want to (laughter) Dominic is also a captain in the army reserve which means he's sacrificed a huge amount of his time on a voluntary basis to ultimately put his life on the line to protect our freedoms and our institutions.

In the bleak welsh valleys, the charter becomes the rallying call for men of action. Two such men are mining contractor zephaniah williams and magistrate john frost.

They are among chartist leaders planning to March a rebel army of coalminers and ironworkers on the garrison town of newport. Their aim is to free the famous chartist orator henry vincent from prison, then drive the british out of south wales.

once newport is secure, we will imprison the aristocrats and magistrates.

- Q29. Well, I guess, you know, do you think the location of the trial is a factor in media attention? Are you, you know, less likely to get the media, say Stirling than you would at in Canberra?
- You're most likely at places like Edinburgh,

 Cerberus (indistinct) You're always going to get them in Darwin. You get them in Townsville because it's just a military town well, it's an army town. We get them in Canberra, get them in Sydney, but it's usually where the member (indistinct) got to make an effort to get there.

CMDR CAMPBELL:

Q30. With respect to places like Townsville that are very heavily a defence town, would you agree that prior to the publication of list there was still a similar level of media scrutiny, because the media will find out anyway?

A Yeah, there was. That was the same with Darwin.

Q31. I'll move onto media if I might then, sir. So, there is a risk that the media may report on trials against ADF members that do not attract similar media attention for like-offences against civilians in a civilian criminal court. Do you think that that risk is being realised, and if you do, have

I would agree it is a risk, but it's a possibility

- that might be a better way I'd express it because, as we all know, the members of the media can have a fascination with the conduct of members of the ADF because of the standards that we are held to. I think that we just have to accept that you got a view on the impact to the individual?

is the circumstances of it, and to the extent that we can manage or mitigate the impact to the individual - and your comment around command support is an example of where that may well be the But if we continue to pursue both the importance of transparency and public awareness, and the deterrence element of this approach, then that outcome plays into both of those elements. So, my view is that, yes, it's quite possible, although we've had some recent examples where I s47F expecting we would get strong media attendance and we got none. I'm not sure to the extent that the risk will be realised, but we do just need to manage it wherein it does.

No, and that risk was there before publication.

There is no - Parliament said this. You've got to have public courts and the media used to contact and ask the RMJ - certainly from the Northern Territory they'd ask for a monthly update. So nothing changed.

don't think publication has - it might have made it slightly easier for the media to see what's on and where, but it's not any information they weren't given anyway.

There is a risk that the media may report on trials against ADF members that do not attract similar media attention for like offences against civilians in a civilian court. Do you think that risk is being realised?

Α

I think the problem has been misstated a bit when it's put that way, because the ADF because it's the ADF attracts more attention than an ordinary civilian court just because of what it is. It stands for something more than ordinary civilian criminal justice. It's held to - it promotes and declares itself according to a higher standard, and it's judged by a higher standard and there is more media interest as a result. I don't - I think in one sense to say that this is caused by publication is something of a sort of false premise, but - and I think the best evidence of that is RMJ have said to me that - that story I told you a while ago about the reaction to the $47F trial, that it shows that there's been a lot of media interest long before publication. He's just - RMJ is much better across the detail of frequency of media enquiries than I am, but I actually don't think it's made a lot of - it hasn't been a spark of interest in boring cases, if I can put it that

Public acceptance, deterrence, and a whole bunch of things there to do with a better level of advocacy and I guess better quality proceedings. I guess I'm interested in your views on whether you whether you think that the publication has provided the benefits that were listed?

don't recall I having significant Right. involvement in the JAG's minute to the CDF and the I can always be corrected by the services. Objective record. I don't recall it, so I think they are principally the JAG's own ideas from that point of view. To then comment on them, with respect to public acceptance and confidence, I can only almost respond to that by a negative sense in that the media inquiries have almost dropped away entirely and such reporting, as I see now, I think is more balanced and accurate than it used to be.

AVM GORDON:

Q32. Okay. I was interested in your comment that media inquiries have reduced.

A Yes.

Penny, is that something we could get some data on?

CMDR CAMPBELL:

- Q33. Do they come directly to you, Ian, or through Defence Media?
- A 90 plus per cent come through Defence Media. The very few ones that come to me get redirected to Defence Media to come back to me.
- Q34. Okay, great.
- A So, Defence Media would have 100 per cent record from that point of view.
- Q35. Yes. I was interested you were saying before that around the time of developing the practice note, you had increased media attention. Do you know what drove that?
- A I can only speculate but my speculation is they became aware of the jurisdiction, just individual reporters, and found it to be a relatively easy story with good copy.

Q36. Yes.

Α

If they attended a proceeding, there was always just enough colour and movement that they could report on it. But if they didn't attend a proceeding, they just asked me to summarise it for You can't easily get a transcript of a them. proceeding that occurred, say, in the local Magistrates Court, or for the matter, the District County Court. That's not going to be provided to a journalist. But in our system, particularly in light of the fact that we weren't advertising that a proceeding was on and if there was one on, it was held on a base behind a locked gate, all those sorts of things. If they put in an FOI application for a transcript, while I would do some redactions - I mean I say "I", and the registrars before me we would provide it to them. So, from the comfort of their own office they could get a transcript, pull out the interesting bits and publish a story without ever having to get their feet wet.
