Freedom of Information in Defence

Freedom of Information in Defence

Handling Note:

- Associate Secretary, Matt Yannopoulos, to lead on this topic.
- First Assistant Secretary Ministerial and Executive Coordination and Communication, Rowena Bain, to support.

Key Messages

- Defence is committed to transparency and, wherever possible, the release of documents under the Freedom of Information Act 1982 (FOI Act).
- Defence is committed to finalising FOI requests in a reasonable timeframe.
- Defence must balance transparency with the need to protect sensitive and classified information in line with the provisions under the FOI Act, particularly relating to Defence operations, capabilities, international relations and commercial interests.

Talking Points

Freedom of Information (FOI) Performance and Timeliness

- Defence finalised 570 FOI requests in FY 2022-23 to 31 March 2023. Of these:
 - 451 decisions were made.
 - : 67 per cent were completed within statutory timeframes. This was slightly down on the Department's performance of 71 per cent for FY 2021-22.
 - 117 requests were withdrawn by the applicant.
 - : Reasons that impact a decision to withdraw a request include where the information is publicly available or has been provided to them directly under administrative release.
 - 2 requests were transferred to another agency.
 - : This is appropriate when the information is more closely connected with the functions of another agency.
- 58 decisions were subject to a request for internal review, of which:
 - 19 resulted in the original decision being upheld.
- Defence has spent $104,072 in FY 2022-23 to 31 March 2023 on FOI training for decision makers and case managers.

If pressed: Why did the Department's timeliness reduce?

- . Timeliness has been impacted for a number of reasons, including ensuring FOI decisions are of high quality, improving the consultation within Defence before a decision is made, and a significant increase in the number of FOI requests received.
 - Defence has seen an increase of 41 per cent in the number of FOIs received when compared to the same period last year.
- . Defence is working to improve our processes with an aim of getting FOI decisions to applicants sooner.

If pressed: Why did a particular decision take so long to finalise?

- . There are a number of reasons why Defence may take longer to finalise an FOI request.
 - The documents may need to be sought from a wide range of areas in Defence and can take time to locate.
 - The information may be particularly sensitive, and therefore close consultation and advice may be needed from a number of subject matter experts to understand the consequence of sensitive or classified information being made public.
 - It may also be appropriate to consult with individuals, businesses or entities before making a decision. Those consulted need to be afforded appropriate time to consider what may be a large amount of sensitive information.

If pressed: Why did Defence spend $154,175 on FOI training in FY 2021-22?

- . Defence has a comprehensive program provided by the Australian Government Solicitor to train FOI decision makers.
 - 275 staff are currently accredited to make FOI decisions.
- . In FY 2022-23 to 31 March 2023, more than 109 staff have completed the FOI training program.
- . Defence's investment in training recognises the importance of FOI and meeting our obligations under the FOI Act.

If pressed: What involvement does the Minister's Office have in FOI decisions?

- . Prior to their release, Defence flags FOI requests that may be sensitive or reported in the media with key stakeholders in the Department, as well as the relevant Minister's Office.
- . This ensures all areas with an equity in the information are aware of the decision and the upcoming release to the applicant.

If pressed: Are talking points prepared for FOI requests?

- Defence prepares talking points for the Defence Executive and Ministerial Offices prior to sensitive documents being released.

Background

- Defence uses the outcomes of internal and external reviews to inform and educate FOI decision makers and improve business processes.
- Defence ceased charging for voluminous FOIs in 2020 due to criticisms regarding the accuracy and appropriateness of its charges.
