History and Heritage

- ⌚ The Australian Government is committed to preserving and enhancing public access to historically significant sites and collections, including museums.
- ⌚ Properties on the Commonwealth Heritage List have protections under the Environment Protection and Biodiversity Conservation Act 1999. The Government has an obligation to protect the Commonwealth Heritage Value of a property as part of any sale. Alternative heritage management options will also be considered.
- ⌚ There is a Commonwealth Heritage Listing for one building on this site for the Artillery Orderly Room/Drill Hall.
- ⌚ The historical artillery collection on site is used on special occasions, such as ANZAC Day. There is no public access to this site.
- ⌚ Options will be explored with future owners to manage heritage obligations as a condition of sale.
- ⌚ Where feasible, museums and collections will be retained and preserved on-site. The Government will also explore partnerships with heritage organisations and trusts to support heritage protection strategies.
- ⌚ Community engagement will inform decisions on preserving and enhancing heritage presentation and public access.
