- The annual Joint Defence Cooperation Committee dialogue, held at the band two/two-star level, is our primary mechanism for managing the bilateral defence relationship with the UAE. The most recent iteration was held over 23-24 April 2018 in Canberra s33(a)(iii) s33(a)(iii) Australia provided an overview of the recent changes in the Defence Industry portfolio, s33(a)(iii) s33(a)(iii)
- Australia has agreed to participate in Expo 2020 Dubai, the next iteration of the World Expo series. DFAT is developing a plan for Australia's participation in the Expo, including the design and fit-out of the Australian pavilion.

Background

- The UAE is seeking to develop its own industrial base using offset requirements, partnerships with foreign original equipment manufacturers and technology transfer. s33(a)(iii) s33(a)(iii)
- s33(a)(iii) s33(a)(iii) According to the Stockholm International Peace Research Institute, the UAE was the fourth largest acquirer of US military equipment in the world from 2007-2016, just behind Australia.
- While the UAE defence industry is a mix of state-owned and private companies, state-owned businesses are the core of the market. Tawazun Holdings and Mubadala are the key companies in the area, with a range of defence subsidiaries. In 2014, the Emirates Defence Industries Company (EDIC) was established to bring together all UAE government owned interests. s33(a)(iii) s33(a)(iii)

ATTACHMENT A

H.H. Sheikh Abdullah bin Zayed Al Nahyan
Cabinet Member, Minister of Foreign Affairs &
International Cooperation
United Arab Emirates

His Highness Sheikh Abdullah bin Zayed Al Nahyan was appointed Minister of Foreign Affairs of the United Arab Emirates on the 9th of February, 2006. The ministry's role focuses on maintaining clear political positions that support the UAE's relationships with its regional and international partners while promoting the UAE as a regional leader in different fields. Also, as foreign minister, he focuses on establishing specialized diplomatic capabilities and encouraging political talents to address international concerns and provide distinct consular and other services in looking after UAE nationals and the issues they may face during their travels.

He is also a member of the UAE's National Security Council, Deputy Chairman of the UAE's Permanent Committee on Borders, Chairman of the board of trustees of Emirates Diplomatic Academy, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Emirates Foundation for Youth Development, Deputy Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Abu Dhabi Fund for Development (ADFD) and Board Member of the National Defense College, and Chairman of the Education and Human Resources Council.

He represents the UAE at Arab and international conferences and meetings. He launched important international forums like Sir Bani Yas Forum and Global Forum on Relationships between the Arab World, Latin America and the Caribbean. He guided a rapid expansion of diplomatic links with countries in Latin America, South Pacific, sub-Saharan Africa and East Asia.

Sheikh Abdullah holds a degree in Political Science from UAE University. He was appointed Minister of Information and Culture in 1997, a post that he held until 2006. He served as Chairman of Emirates Media Incorporated, Chairman of UAE Football Association (1993 – 2001), and as the Under Secretary of the Ministry of Information and Culture from 1995 to 1997.

He was born in Abu Dhabi on the 30th of April, 1972; an avid reader, a student of history, a keen sportsman particularly interested in scuba diving, football and cycling. He also enjoys classical music. He is married to Her Highness Sheikha Alyazia bint Saif Al Nahyan and has five children: Fatima, Mohammad, Zayed, Saif and Theyab.

He is married with a daughter and a son.

Discussion Points

Australia-UAE defence relationship

- We view our defence relationship with the UAE as a genuine partnership that makes a substantial contribution to the peace and security of the Middle East.
 - There are over 1,000 ADF personnel currently deployed to the broader Middle East, including 400 in Iraq and about 300 in Afghanistan, s33(a)(iii) and our deployed major fleet unit.
 - s33(a)(iii)
- I was particularly pleased to attend the International Defence Exhibition (IDEX) in Abu Dhabi last year.
 - Australia will be expanding our trade show presence through additional funding for Team Defence Australia.
 - As one of the largest conferences in the world, we remain very interested in attendance at IDEX.

Australian Industry Developments

- In late January, the Government released Australia's first ever Defence Export Strategy to increase our defence exports over the next decade.

- To aid this export effort, the Australian Government has launched an Australian Defence Export Office which is responsible for tasks such as trade exhibitions and working with industry and government.
- A Defence Exports Advocate has also recently been established.
- On 20 March, I launched the second edition of the Australian Military Sales Catalogue.
 - At almost 100 pages, the Catalogue showcases the capabilities of 69 innovative Australian companies for export.
- In April, the Australian Government released the first ever Australian Defence Industrial Capability Plan.
 - This Plan provides the Government's vision and objectives for the development of Australia's defence industry over the next decade.
 - It highlights that Australian defence industry has a range of world leading capabilities and is well positioned to meet Defence's current and future capability needs.

Australia-UAE Defence Industry Engagement

- Australia is keen to enhance defence industry cooperation with the UAE, particularly at the industry-to-industry level.
 - Deeper engagement between our defence industries will strengthen the broader bilateral relationship.

- Australian companies have a strong track record of establishing a local presence or partnering with local companies to deliver capabilities.
